

Have fun with your dinnerware

Using the finest quality of Australian stoneware clay, Bison uses ancient and contemporary techniques to produce beautiful and durable dinnerware and decorative pieces. With its many designs and funky colours, it's not hard to see why this Australian Designed and produced range is sought after both locally and internationally, from Sydney's Powerhouse Museum to Selfridges in London. Bump up the flavour

Vecon Vegetable Stock offers a smooth concentrated paste which is perfect for adding some flavour to savoury cooking, especially delicious stews and casseroles. It's so versatile, Vecon Vegetable Stock can even be dissolved with hot water to make a tasty drink, or mixed with yoghurt or cream cheese for a morish dip at your next party. There are no animal products at all in the stock, and so it's ideal for vegans and vegetarians, and since it's gluten free, Coeliacs will be sighing with relieve. With not a hint of genetically modified food, I ask you, does a more versatile food product exist?! For more information, visit www.choate.com.au

Herbal Infusion

Oracle organic have mastered producing purely organic beverages like juices, soft drinks, spring water, tea and coffee. It not only tastes great, but it is totally affordable, unlike many organic products. 100% Australian owned and made, Oracle organic drinks are wonderfully refreshing and full of natural flavour. Style up your kitchen

This uber-stylish blender uses the Kinetix blade and bowl system, which means there are central blades to crush and chop, wide blades to fold and aerate, and a contoured bowl so there is less mess and it is easier to clean afterwards. Unlike many blenders that could wake up a nation, the Breville Professional is quiet as a mouse, and while everything about it is heavy duty and stronger than Hercules, it remains light in weight. With its stainless steel appearance, this is one kitchen appliance you'll want to sit on the bench, and not hide in the cupboard! For more information, visit www.breville.com.au
